

Emerald Sci Conference 2020 Bio

Bio:

Ben Euhus is a recent graduate from The Technion in Haifa, Israel where he investigated the effects of Cannabis sativa on the microglia brain cell. During this time, Ben received his Master's degree as well as observed first-hand the powerful anti-cancer and therapeutic potential of cannabis from his colleagues and his own research. His studies have allowed him to separate the cannabis plant into isolated compounds as well as work on live cell and animal models and he hopes to continue his work in cannabis research with a focus on drug development or helping to create a revised strain classification system that better suits potential effects.